Understanding, Preventing and Replacing Problem Behavior Workshops

Problem behaviors can impact the ability to participate fully and as independently as possible at home and in the community. This series of workshops will be geared toward parents and caregivers and focus on: identifying, defining and measuring unwanted behaviors, the functions of behavior, general strategies for responding to inappropriate behaviors and finding suitable replacements for those behaviors. Due to their often complicated nature, we will not target extreme behaviors, such as those resulting in harm to self or others, or those that present safety risks.

Leigh Ann S. Wheat, M.S., BCBA, of Positive Behavior Supports, Corp. will lead the four sessions, two in person and two on-line. Only 25 seats are available.

Pre-registration is required.

$40 for members $50 for non-members
Childcare will not be provided.
For maximum benefit, all sessions should be attended.

- Leigh Ann Wheat is a board certified behavior analyst (BCBS) with experience in providing applied behavior analytic intervention to children, adolescents and adults with autism and other developmental disabilities.
- She received her Bachelors degree in psychology from Texas A&M University and earned her Masters degree in behavior analysis from The University of North Texas. Leigh Ann has been a BCBA since 2002 and has over 20 years of experience working with individuals with developmental disabilities.
- She has an extensive background in training and has provided instruction to parents, teachers, students and ABA therapists in a variety of subjects related to increasing skills and decreasing problem behavior.
- Leigh Ann especially enjoys collaborating with families, which she believes is key in maximizing progress and achieving the most independent outcomes.
